More About the Stalwart Wrath against Robertson.

CHANDLER HAS POOR PROSPECTS FOR CONFIRMATION

Rumors that Cameron will Stand [illegible] Mr McVeagh [illegible] Appointed to the Command [illegible]

[illegible] It appears [illegible] and that Senators Conkling and [illegible] openly oppose his nomination. Conkling [illegible] recently in receipt of letters and telegrams [illegible] stalwarts of New York advising this course and representing that the passage of the resolution [illegible] the legislature endorsing Robertson's nomination was permitted by his (Conkling's) friends under the influence of false statements to the effect that he had consented to it. He received upwards of a hundred telegrams from one county of New York on a single day recently, and it is said that he now [illegible] sure of the solid support of his party in that state in any plan of opposition that he may conclude to adopt. His prospects for success in the senate are however considered to be practically hopeless, as the great mass of the Democratic senators will undoubtedly vote for Robertson's confirmation as a means of planting a permanent cause of discord in the republican party, and Garfield and Blaine's immediate following in the senate would unquestionably give a sufficient number of votes to make the confirmation certain.

The Situation.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Conkling, Platt and Arthur [illegible] had several conferences to-day. They have ascertained that Robertson will not be withdrawn and they mean to fight him. All democratic senators will support Robertson, believing that they are sustaining Blaine, whom they like. It is probable that Chandler's name may be withdrawn, as he stands but a poor chance of confirmation. The democrats are all against him [illegible]

[illegible] Attorney General McVeagh spent an hour at the capitol this afternoon mingling with senators on both sides of the chamber. He was inquiring about the [illegible] and the chances of its being term[illegible] and also it is said made inquiries as to the probable [illegible] of Chandler's confirmation as solicitor general. The democrats talk of voting solidly against Chandler, and if they prove to be unanimous on this question there will be only one republican vote needed to defeat him. This vote will certainly be [illegible] Don Cameron, even if no other republicans [illegible] the opportunity to pay off the scores which a [illegible] of them have marked against Chandler for his [illegible] pamphlet attacks from time to time [illegible] who has [illegible] to come up to his standard.

In regard to the senate deadlock [illegible] are still no [illegible] of its breaking. Some of the republicans [illegible] getting nervous over the nominations [illegible] which they are interested, but they hold to their [illegible] apparently and tend to do so [illegible] Democratic leaders [illegible] express determination to maintain the [illegible] but are not in any degree troubled either by [illegible] which delay takes or by apprehensions as to [illegible] result of the contest.

The Pending Nominations.

[illegible] belief that in a day or two at farthest [illegible] sessions will be allowed to confirm a very large number of pending nominations.

An Interesting Decision.

[illegible] was rendered by the U. S. supreme court to-day in a case which has a good deal of [illegible] [illegible] McDowell, Arizona [illegible] forwarded to the president during a temporary [illegible] accepted and shortly thereafter Alexander [illegible] In 1878 President [illegible] reconsidera[illegible] [illegible] resignation [illegible] charged him from the service without an [illegible] Blake could not [illegible] have been restored to the service without [illegible] nomination and confirmation.

An Appeal from the Colored People of Louisiana.

A delegation of fifty colored men representing the [illegible] republicans of Louisiana called upon President Garfield to-day. Their address, which was [illegible] claims that the colored race in Louisiana has kept pace with the rest of the nation in the march of progress, that they pay taxes on $5,000,000 of property, and by their labors raise [illegible] of the sugar and rice crop and [illegible] the cotton crop, and ask [illegible] new legislation only hence [illegible] enforcement of existing laws for their protection, especially equal participation in the advantages of the public school [illegible] and freedom and protection in the right of suffrage. The president in reply expressed his gratification at the progress and material prosperity of the colored race. He renewed the assurances of his inaugural address and urged upon their consideration the importance to their race of education and personal ownership of the soil upon which they live and toil.

Lt. Berry to Command the Jeannette Search Expedition.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Lieut. R. M. Berry, U. S. N., has been ordered to command the steamer Mary and Helen on the proposed Arctic expedition in search of the Jeannette. Secretary Hunt furnished Lieut. Berry with a list of naval officers who have [illegible] for the service, and he will be guided by a [illegible] preferences he may entertain in making up [illegible] of officers who will serve under him.

Found his Man.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—A private message from Las Vegas, N. M., says that Jas. Curry, the murderer of Porter, the actor, was shot and killed at that place March 4th. It appears that he was on a drunken spree and threatened to kill several people. Among the persons threatened was the bartender of the saloon, who shot Curry in self defense. A party of railroad hands, friends of the dead man, [illegible] to lynch the bartender, but the sheriff [illegible] in getting him to jail. A coroner's jury was held and the jury at once returned a verdict of shooting in self defense.

Gen. Grant and Party en route to Mexico.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—General Grant, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, U. S. Grant, Jr., and wife, Senor Romero, ex-Mexican minister to the United States, Mr. Allen, Mrs. Sharpe and N. E. Dawson, the general's private secretary, arrived here between 12 and [illegible] this morning by the Vandalia line en route to Mexico. The party took quarters for the night at the Lindell hotel and left at 9 [illegible] this morning by the Iron Mountain railroad. The general stated to a reporter just before the train started that his trip to Mexico is in the interest of the Mexican Southern railroad, of which he is president, and partly for [illegible] and rest. He would not talk about politics. The party will be absent about two months.

Hill—I accept the gentleman's statement that the [illegible] are of true, but if the senator expects to stop me from [illegible] historical facts he is mistaken. His [illegible] is unnecessary and out of place.

Controversy was then resumed between Hoar and Hill. In concluding Hill again alluded to [illegible] for [illegible] letter declaring that he was still of the opinion it would be for the best to have both party organizations [illegible]

Beck ridiculed the republicans for refusing executive session. He believed that they were quarreling, and dared not [illegible] preferring to wave the bloody shirt and to stir up strife.

Dawes asserted [illegible] that the republicans would go into executive session in ten minutes after these resolutions were adopted. [Laughter.]

Beck said that the republicans knew that they could not be [illegible] especially while the republicans allied themselves with [illegible] senators [illegible] to this impossible thing [illegible]

Dawes was desiring to give Beck and his friends time to rally round this [illegible] every moment to adjourn, agreed to. Adjourned.

Action of the Board of Directors on the Villard Suit—Keynote of the Defense.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The Northern Pacific directors held their first meeting yesterday [illegible] 180,000 shares were [illegible] Villard's movement was discussed. There appeared entire unanimity among the directors as to the necessity of freely endorsing the action of the executive committee, and a resolution so announcing was presented. J. [illegible] Bullitt, a lawyer and one of the syndicate directors, opposed its adoption, calling attention to the preliminary injunction secured from Judge [illegible] Villard. He said that formal indorsement of the issuance of stock pending injunction would render the directors liable for contempt of court. Bullitt then offered the following substitute, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the suit of Henry Villard against the Northern Pacific Railroad Co., its directors and others for an injunction be vigorously defended [illegible]

Counsel were given special instruction in accordance therewith. In discussing the legality of the action of the executive committee in issuing the stock, the following extract from the by-laws of the company setting forth the duties and powers of that committee was considered: The executive committee, when the board is not in session, shall and may exercise all powers of the board of directors which can be lawfully delegated to or exercised by them, and they shall cause to be kept a full and accurate record of their actions and proceedings and submit the same from time to time to the board. Attention was also directed to the fact that the plan of reorganization adopted in 1875, to which Villard in his plea for injunction refers, [illegible] provides that common stock shall be issued to the amount authorized by the charter—$100,000,000—less the amount of $51,000,000 of preferred stock. Certificates on the stock shall be issued to holders of or those now entitled to certificates, share for share, and the residue ratably to those originally entitled thereto or their assigns. In these quotations may be discovered the keynote to the defense which will be set up against the plea of Villard.

MAHONE OF VIRGINIA.

Touching the dalliance of the republicans with Mahone and the "bargain" with him for distribution of the offices of the senate, the Springfield Republican says:

> When men like Mahone put themselves up at auction in politics, they are sure to receive bids from one party and generally from both. Mahone has taken the republican bid; there is little else to the transaction. Nobody entertains the slightest doubt that the democrats would have made the same bid to keep Mahone which the republicans made to secure him—if they could. The two parties stand alike in these matters; they may lack for opportunity, but never for intention. The transfer of Mahone's vote from the democratic column to the republican as the result of an agreement over committees and patronage marks the low level to which both parties have sunk.

This is one view of the Mahone alliance. But there is another. On abstract principles the Republican is right in speaking severely of the use which is being made of Mahone in a "dicker" for the offices at the disposal of the senate. This feature of the affair is petty, contemptible and disgusting enough. But possibly the transaction may reach farther than this squabble over the senate's "patronage." If a good result is to be obtained we can not afford for the time to scan or criticise too narrowly all the motives that bring it about, or to condemn utterly the instruments and incidents that lead up to it. Speaking of Mahone, Charles Nordhoff, who represents the New York Herald at Washington, remarks:

> As to the cry that he is a repudiator of debts, that is simply the war cry with which the Virginia Bourbons strove to bring Mahone and his movement into disrepute. "Readjustment" was the occasion, not the purpose, of the anti-democratic movement in Virginia, just as "greenbackism" was the occasion for similar anti-democratic movements in other southern states, and the Bourbon democratic outcry that they were the only honest and God-fearing people, and Mahone and his people are no better than a lot of pirates, was a mere pretext. Your correspondent asked a Mississippi greenbacker the other day, "Well, what is a greenbacker in your state?" and the reply came, sharp and decisive: "A greenbacker in Mississippi is a man who will be hanged before he will cast another vote for the proscriptive and intolerant Bourbon democracy." That is the whole thing in a nutshell.

It would be something, indeed, to break down Bourbonism in Virginia. Mahone's speech in the senate reported by telegraph, is a declaration of hostility to the "regular" democratic party of the state, as well as a bold announcement that the fight of the readjusters is a fight for equal liberty and fair play for all citizens, black and white. A despotism has not only ruled but terrorized Virginia, as well as most other southern states. If the country would see this despotism broken down it can hardly afford to criticise too severely the instruments, or even the methods, by which the deliverance is to be accomplished. That the aim of Mahone and his associates is now to overthrow Bourbonism in Virginia admits no rational doubt. It is not necessary to suppose that they began this work, or that they continue in it, as entirely pure and unselfish patriots. In the party of Bourbonism there wasn't room for all the statesmen on the front seats and Mahone and his fellows are trying to crowd the other fellows off. This is developing into a very bitter personal and partisan war. The strife itself, in most of its details, is despicable enough. But if it shall be the means of emancipating Virginia from the despotism that rules it, and establishing within the state a more liberal public opinion, an excellent result will be secured as excellent results often are through motives which in themselves will not bear the closest scrutiny or analysis. Encomium upon Mahone would be ridiculous. But while the "icy precepts of respect" forbid this, nevertheless it is permitted to look beyond the man to the probable consequences of his course. Fortunately for mankind good does not come out of good alone. It often comes out of men, motives and acts that no one could commend. It is not probable that by nature Mahone would be more inclined to liberate or liberalize Virginia than the Bourbons themselves, of whom till recently he was one. But the exigencies of his position have forced him upon liberal ground, and he must now fight with the weapons of equal rights. Liberty and justice often press recruits into their service from the opposing ranks in this and similar ways. Otherwise they would have a much harder thing of it than they do.

It is likely to dawn on the consciousness of President Garfield ere long that in trying to distribute favors so as to please politicians he has already made considerable mistakes. Many appointments have been made to placate the "bosses," and these have been followed by attempts to smooth things over by appointments of certain prominent anti-machine men. Too much has been done to "fix" things. The fundamental error was in the supposition that it was necessary to pay particular attention to the wishes of Boss Conkling and Boss Logan. It is not at all necessary to please them in these matters. To "consult" senators and representatives in congress, that is, to surrender to them the control of executive power, is to go back to the evils of the spoils system. And a half-way surrender is both illogical and untenable. President Garfield, before his term is half done, will be forced either to snub the bosses as peremptorily as President Hayes did or give up to them entirely as President Grant did. There is no middle ground. The first is the easy and independent course—the course demanded alike by the public welfare and the future good of the republican party. The last is the course of official and political degeneracy and of party overthrow. However good judges senators and representatives may claim to be of the proper persons to select for office, the fact is that in practice as a general rule, they use the power thus placed at their disposal to reward their active adherents and supporters for personal services. In this way the distribution of the public offices becomes the foundation of a vast system of political corruption, through which oligarchies and rings of office holders, under direction of congressional chiefs, control the whole machinery of party organization for ends of party ambition. The republican party is not going to tolerate this, and if the present administration suffers itself to forget the fact, the time will come when it will be rudely reminded of it.

The communication entitled "No Bridge," printed to-day, is based on a single assumption which it seems proper to say with all confidence is totally unfounded, namely, that the bridge would "ruin all dock property south of Morrison street." This requires us to be ignorant of the fact that there are drawbridges on water courses in all parts of the world through which vessels pass without serious detention or inconvenience. There seems no valid reason to suppose that if a bridge were built with a proper draw at Morrison street one single vessel less would load south of that street. But the draw ought to be more than one hundred feet wide, and proper authority should be obtained for erecting the bridge. And its construction ought to conform to the usual regulations of the engineer department. All this can be done. Should the injunction be made permanent the next step will be to make application to congress. The present state of the case shows how imprudent it was to begin such a work without first obtaining the proper authority for it.

The amendments to the constitution of the state of Indiana, which were set aside last year for a partisan object by the supreme court of the state, have been again submitted to the people and ratified by an overwhelming majority.

cate, but we've made all our arrangements and we can't let him in. The only Washington man who can get an interest is Dyer [illegible] Post of the Capital, and we give him an interest only because we can't keep him out. We'll take in old Ananias, too, if he were alive and running a newspaper in Washington, for we must have somebody to present our scheme to the public in a plausible manner."

"Have you any other reasons for your action?" he asked. "Yes. Do you know I am a

A CARD.

In the Astorian of March 27th there was published what purported to be a report of a trial before Justice Fox of myself and M. D. Curran, on a charge of interfering with a police officer in the discharge of his duty. And whereas said report in the Astorian stated that we were discharged because the evidence produced was not sufficient to bind us over to appear before the grand jury, I wish to state the following facts, which were proven by the sworn evidence produced at said trial: On Friday, 24th inst., I was standing on the sidewalk near the city jail, conversing with Mr. Curran, Sheriff Twombly and other gentlemen, when Ginder came along with a man under arrest with whom I was well acquainted. Seeing us, the prisoner called out: "Boys, I am arrested. Will any of you go my bail?" I stepped up and asked how much bail was required. Ginder replied, "Twenty dollars." I then produced that sum and tendered it to the officer. Ginder said, "I won't take your money." Mr. Curran then said, "Why won't you take his money?" And again offering him the twenty, I said, "Here's your money for his bail; take it." Without any other provocation Ginder then drew his club and struck me with it on my shoulder. Mr. Curran then asked him what he was doing, and his reply to him was, "Yes, [illegible] I'll take you too," and at the same time he aimed another blow at my head with his club, which I warded off with my arm. Mr. Ginder then walked off with his prisoner to the city jail and soon afterwards took out a warrant for the arrest of Mr. D. Curran and myself on a charge of attempting to rescue a prisoner. We had our trial next day, and the above facts were proven by several respectable witnesses. After the evidence was taken the case was submitted, without argument by counsel, to Justice Fox, who immediately ordered our discharge. Having complained to Mr. Balts, reporter of the Daily Astorian, of the wording of his report of the trial and getting no satisfaction, I am desirous that my many friends, both in Portland and Astoria, shall be made acquainted with the true facts and circumstances under which this malicious arrest and charge was made, and I publish this in THE OREGONIAN because I do not intend that any undeserved stigma of this kind shall rest upon my character as a peaceable and good citizen.

CITY.

Fire at Albany.—Another disastrous fire occurred at Albany yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. A two story frame building on Ferry street, nearly opposite the postoffice, owned by Mr. P. Schlosser and occupied by Kwong, Mow & Co., extensive Chinese merchants, took fire from causes unknown and was totally consumed with all the contents. Some 15 or 20 Chinamen were asleep in the various departments of the building, and in one of these sleeping rooms the fire commenced. So rapidly did the flames spread that some of the Chinamen had to leap through the windows to escape with their lives. No. 1's, with their hand engine, were the first to reach the scene of the fire, and with Joseph Weber at their head, did valuable service in keeping back the flames from the adjoining property. No. 2's, W. B. Scott, chief, with their steam engine, soon after came on the ground, and as soon as they fairly got to work the danger of further spread of the fire was over. The building was valued at $1200; insured for $850. The Chinese' loss is estimated at $3500; insurance $2500.

Insane Asylum Building.—The building commissioners of the Oregon insane asylum have just let the contract for furnishing about 300,000 feet of lumber to the Capital Lumbering Mills Company and R. L. Swartz, of Salem, each party furnishing one half of the required amount at the following figures: Rough lumber, $12 per thousand feet; dressed, $18, and flooring, $20. The delivery of material on the ground will commence on Monday next and work will be commenced on the foundation very shortly, the location of the building having been agreed upon. Geo. Collins, who has the contract for furnishing the brick, has 20,000 ready for delivery and expects to have 150,000 ready by May 1st. W. F. Boothby, Esq., superintendent of construction is making necessary arrangements and expects to have the building enclosed before the fall rains of 1881 set in. Advertisements for bids for lime, cement and certain lines of labor will be found in another column, and indications are favorable for lively times at the state property near Salem during the coming summer.

Dr. Atkinson on Oregon.—Under this caption the Providence Journal of March 9th contains the following: "The history of our great Pacific coast is full of romantic adventure and patriotic devotion. No more interesting or graphic incident can be found in the history of this or any other country than the story of Dr. Marcus Whitman's overland journey from Oregon to Washington in the winter of 1842-3, by which that country was saved from the British power and secured to the United States. It is therefore no common good fortune that permits our citizens to listen to an authoritative account of this remarkable journey. Rev. G. H. Atkinson, D. D., for thirty-three years a resident of Oregon, is spending a few days in this city, and has consented to give a lecture this evening in the chapel of Mowry & Goff's school, No. 45 Snow street, on the subject, 'How Dr. Whitman Saved Oregon to this Country.' The public are respectfully invited. The lecture will commence at a quarter before eight."

Improvements Abandoned.—It was announced a short time since that the O. R. & N. Co. were about to make very extensive additions and alterations to their wharf property in Astoria. We now learn that they have abandoned this intention owing to the fact that there are one or two intervening water front lots owned by other parties, and necessary to their use if the improvements had been carried out, which cannot be purchased by the company at what is deemed to be a fair value.

Did not go East.—The statement made that Mr. H. F. Beecher, son of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, had left on the steamer en route to Brooklyn, New York, was premature. The young gentleman has written a note correcting the error, and says: "I am happy to state that the report of her serious illness is untrue. I have had dispatches from home saying that it was a temporary fainting spell, and that she is now in perfect health."

To be Cut Off.—Mr. F. N. Shurtleff, collector of customs at this port, has been officially notified from Washington that the appropriations for light, fuel, water, etc., are insufficient to meet the current expenses. He is authorized to incur no further expenditures after the 31st of March. Should this order be strictly enforced, the postoffice and custom house building will, after to-day, be in the [illegible] and shadow of darkness.

Remains Arrived.—The body of Captain L. L. Williams, who died in San Francisco a few days ago, arrived here by the Oregon and were sent to Roseburg yesterday morning for burial. The funeral will take place to-day under auspices of Philaletarian Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Roseburg.

Appointed Agent.—Mr. Geo. W. Phelps, Jr., for the past year private secretary of Capt. Geo. J. Ainsworth, has been appointed agent of the O. R. & N. Co. at the Lower Cascades. This is one of the most important agencies of the company, and it certainly is in competent hands.

Boat House Repairs.—The Portland Rowing Association's boat house has been at Weidler's mill for a few days, receiving underpinning of logs, which will materially strengthen the building. She was towed to her former moorings at the foot of Taylor street.

Life Sentence.—In the state circuit court at Hillsboro yesterday Henry Wintzingerode, condemned for the murder of Jacob Zwanger, plead guilty to murder in the second degree, which was accepted by the district attorney. His sentence, of course, will be imprisonment in the state penitentiary for life.

Returned.—Pilot Thomas Doig, who was in charge of the ill-fated Great Republic when she was wrecked, returned to Astoria on the pilot schooner J. C. Cousins. It is understood that he intends to apply for reinstatement as bar pilot.

For California.—Mr. R. V. Chadd, editor of the Yakima Record, arrived in the city last night and will leave on the Oregon, having been called to the bedside of his mother who is dangerously ill.

Pleased.—The numerous subscribers of The Oregonian in Astoria were, much to their satisfaction, served with papers—sent by the State of California—before noon last Tuesday.

Arrested.—Yesterday afternoon, Sheriff Hogan of Douglas county, arrested Chas. Tindall in this city on charge of stealing $250. Tindall will be taken to Roseburg to-day.

At the Hospital.—There are now 64 patients confined at St. Vincent Hospital. During the past week four very difficult and severe operations were performed.

Presbyterian Church this Evening.—After lecture the session will meet. Intending members will please send in their letters or appear in person.

Offices Established.—Wells, Fargo & Co., has recently established offices at Dayton and Sheridan, Yamhill county, and Almota, W. T.

At the Clarendon.—Miss Katherine Rogers and the entire Baldwin Theater Company are stopping at the Clarendon Hotel.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The ladies' committee of the Open Temperance Society, are preparing for a very fine entertainment at the Y. M. C. Hall on next Friday evening, the proceeds to be applied to the payment of the elegant piano lately purchased for the society. These ladies have already given a number of very excellent concerts at a very low price, and it is now their desire to finish paying for the piano before warm weather. Several new singers will appear and there will also be several novelties, including a Chinook song in costume, an Irish reading in costume; also, an Irish song and the celebrated Addison fan drill; also a very amusing novelty, which we are not permitted now to make public. This concert is expected to surpass all previous efforts of those having it in charge. About thirty performers will participate and a commodious stage will be erected at one end of the hall, so that all may see plainly. The programme will be published to-morrow morning. Tickets 50 cents, or three for $1.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE GREENWOOD WILL CASE.

Extraordinary Scene in the Oregon Supreme Court—A Lady a Plaintiff in a Cause Makes a Speech in her own Behalf.

SALEM, March 29, 1881.

In to-day's trial of the cause of Mary C. Cline and Olive Newsom vs. J. W. Greenwood and Eliza J. Smith, in an original suit to impeach and set aside the decree of Judges Kelly and Prim, late of the supreme court of Oregon, invalidating the will of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Greenwood, the mother of Mrs. Cline, that lady, on permission of the court arose and addressed the judges as follows:

"Please the Court: I have asked the privilege to make a few remarks in this case, as a party hereto, because I am aware that this is an unusual suit, and that I am making an extraordinary appeal to your patience, your courage, and your fidelity to the constitution. Therefore my apology is in the state of the facts.

My mother was a sane woman and of uncommon business capacity. When about 65 she desired to make provision for her old age, and to help me, her daughter, and my impoverished family. So she willed me 240 acres of her donation land claim and some money if she should have any left at her death. At her request I went on her farm and took care of her as long as she lived—about three years.

The lawyers and the court took the property away from me, and branded my mother's memory as insane and incompetent. I know that this has been done wrongfully and foully, though perhaps with fatal effectiveness and security.

But knowing as I do that my mother's motives were only prompted by love and justice and charity for me and mine, I cannot submit tamely to that damaging decree. I deem it a response I owe my mother's love to try to lift that dark veil from her dear dead face, and to expunge the black falsehood from her record in the courts of my country by this original suit, to impeach and set aside that false finding that made my mother a wreck and a lunatic, and in this effort the ties of justice and a daughter's love sustain and impel me.

Yet so sacred do I regard your duty to your positions, that I do not, and I dare not ask of you anything in my behalf but the law and sacred constitution."

Messrs. Lawson of Salem and D'Arcy of Portland were attorneys for the plaintiff, and Gov. Thayer for the defendants, and it was quite a treat to the ladies present as spectators, to pass from the dry law logic of the gentlemen to the pure, staged, prayerful eloquence of the lady who closed the case.

LADY SPECTATORS.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Multon.—The new dramatic season will open this evening at New Market theater in the intensely emotional play of Miss Multon. In this piece Miss Katherine Rogers appears to very excellent advantage, the character of Miss Multon being really one of the lady's best and greatest impersonations. She has interpreted this character in all the large cities of this country, to crowded theaters, winning golden opinions from the press and plaudits from the public. That she will fully realize the high expectations raised by her extended reputation there can be little doubt. Few actresses have come to Portland bearing higher endorsements from cultivated auditors and discriminating critics.

Miss Rogers will be supported by a first class company in every particular. The prominent characters of the play will be entrusted to experienced, competent hands—the cast including Messrs. Grismer, Jennings, Bradly, McCormack, Miss Andrews, Miss Young, Miss Sawyer, Miss Eberle and others.

Miss Multon has been carefully rehearsed and will be produced with thoughtful reference to properties, mountings, settings and proper stage and scenic effects.

To-morrow afternoon Miss Multon will be repeated at matinee. Saturday evening a double bill will be rendered—Pygmalion and Galatea and Leah, the Jewish maiden.

Reserved seats can be obtained at Prentice's music store.

PRE-NATAL MURDER.

The Coroner's Jury Find that Mollie Ross Died from the Results of a Crime.

Yesterday morning the coroner's jury, which had been summoned to inquire into the cause of the death of Miss Mollie Ross, returned the following verdict:

That upon the evidence adduced the said Mary Ross came to her death on the 19th day of March, 1881, in the city of Portland, Multnomah county, state of Oregon, from the result of an abortion produced upon the said Mary Ross by Dr. John H. Thessing, of Clackamas county, state of Oregon, aided and abetted by George Marshall, of Tacoma, Washington territory.

The real facts were concealed by the attending physician at the earnest tearful solicitations of the mother who had suffered long and intensely on account of her wayward daughter, and who shrunk from the obloquy which would attach to the death if the whole truth were published.

The verdict and evidence were placed in the hands of Justice Bybee, and yesterday afternoon a warrant for the arrest of Dr. Thessing, of Milwaukie, was placed in the hands of Constable Sprague. The doctor will come to Portland this morning. The matter will be investigated by the grand jury.

HOW AN EGG THIEF WAS SERVED.

For the past month S. M. Lyon, the broker, has been annoyed by boys who visited his barn, corner Ninth and Salmon, and stole eggs from the nests. But the other day he got hold of a youngster who will probably not trouble him again soon. He saw the boy enter the barn, followed him there, and through a crack observed him not only filling the pockets of his pantaloons and coat, but stowing a dozen or more inside of his vest. As the pilferer came out, Lyon grabbed him by the collar and asked:

"What was you doing in there?"

"N-n-nothing," stammered the culprit.

"Well," replied Lyon, "I thought may be you was stealing eggs. But you look like a good boy"—(Giving him a slap on the right breast and smashing half a dozen)—"no, I don't think you'd steal eggs"—(a slap on the left breast)—"if ever you do steal"—(slap on the coat pocket)—"I'll have you arrested"—(several slaps about his pockets) "and put in jail."

By this time, seventy separate and distinct streaks of alternate yellow and white, were coursing down his trowsers legs and he went right straight home. He hasn't been around the barn since.

THE WILLAMETTE BRIDGE.

PORTLAND, March 30, 1881.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In your comments upon the decision of Judge Deady, regarding the bridge, the statement is made that "nine-tenths of the people on both sides of the river want this bridge;" also, "a bridge is so important that the project cannot be given up."

If the statements are correct any opposition would be futile, as nine-tenths of the people, when united upon one project generally win, but assuming there is a mistake in the number, and further, that it is not of such vital importance to the convenience, comfort or pecuniary advantage of any number of people on either side of the river; but on the contrary as the bridge would, as has been clearly shown by the reports of United States engineers and affidavits of pilots and steamboat men, so obstruct navigation as to destroy the value of all wharf property south of Morrison street, and in that event, would not the remaining wharfage of the city be too limited for the requirements of its growing commerce, and hence a public calamity? Is it true that the bridge is a necessity? Is it not rather a popular delusion? Will not proper ferry facilities meet all the requirements of the people? Take, for instance, the Stark street ferry, which now makes trips every ten minutes. Estimated number of people on the east side of the river, 3000; 300 crossing daily. The boat is but two minutes in making the trip and is of sufficient capacity to carry 300 at one trip. If the population were ten times its present number three ferries would accommodate the trade and travel quicker, cheaper and with greater comfort than a bridge. Nine-tenths of the people of Brooklyn, N. Y., were clamorous for a bridge across the East river to New York, were willing to be taxed $14,000,000 of dollars to build it. When built it was of no utility, six ferries still do the business of a million people.

A majority of the property owners on Fourth street in this city were willing to contribute to have the cars run through that street. Now they would contribute more not to have them. This is mentioned simply to show that the majority of the people are not always correct, and the intemperate zeal manifested by the advocates of the bridge is not the best evidence of its necessity.

Mention is made of the growing commerce between East Portland and this city which will be benefited by the bridge, conceding all its importance, would it not be in order to consider the statement of Mr. Hatch in regard to the business of Pacific wharf last year, the landing of twenty-seven sea going vessels with value to the amount of one and a half million dollars, which would have been an absolute impossibility with a bridge at Morrison street. And the Pacific is but one of a number of wharves that will be ruined for future business of that character by the bridge. You state "There is a great public welfare which must prevail over comparatively small private interests." Correct. The great public welfare will be best subserved by not obstructing the Willamette river with a bridge though the private interests of its projectors and builders may suffer. To be convinced of this, careful reading of the report of Col. Gillespie and the affidavits of the pilots and steamboat men on the subject is only necessary. As the legal points involved in the subject are now before the courts and the future of the enterprise somewhat uncertain, it may be well for the people to accept the situation and for a while accommodate themselves to existing arrangements, and if better ferry facilities are required secure them, as the more thoroughly the matter is investigated the fact will be established that public interests require

NO BRIDGE.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE QUESTION.

EAST PORTLAND, March 30, 1881.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

It may seem like presumption, and probably displays a considerable amount of "hardihood" for an obscure and unimportant individual like myself to undertake to criticise the opinions or statements of so high an authority as the judge of the U. S. district court; but nevertheless, on the principle that "a mouse may look at a king," I will undertake, though with some trepidation, to combat some of the assertions contained in the learned judge's opinion, granting the injunction restraining the Willamette Iron Bridge Co. from proceeding with the construction of the bridge. Being neither a lawyer nor the son of a lawyer, I shall not attempt to dispute the legal points contained in the decision, leaving that to others who by their special training and occupation are better qualified to discuss that subject, but at the same time I do object to the statements contained in the opinion so far as the area, population and importance of the "narrow strip of country between East Portland and the Columbia river" is concerned. In the first place then the population of East Portland, according to the census of 1880, amounted to 3018, and it is well known the number is rapidly increasing. Indeed it would not be too much to say that should present rate of increase continue it will in the course of a few years contain ten or fifteen thousand inhabitants. At the present time it is probably the second city in point of population in the state, there being but very little difference between East Portland and Salem at the time the census was taken. Then again I think the learned judge must have drawn upon his imagination for his facts when he describes the country surrounding East Portland as the "narrow strip of country between East Portland and the Columbia river." A country that extends from the mouth of the Willamette to the Cascades, thence southerly to about parallel with Salem at [illegible] not less than 200 square miles [illegible] "narrow strip." The land in this section is nearly all taken up and settled, and scattered over it are numerous villages as Mount Tabor, Powell's Valley, Milwaukie, Eagle Creek, Damascus, etc.

At the election held last November, the total vote for president, in all the precincts in that portion of Multnomah county lying east of the Willamette river was 1230. Multiply that number by five gives a population of 6050, and say 5 per cent (a low estimate) for the increase of population since, and we have a total of 6352 persons who are engaged in the "transportation of their limited dairy and garden products to the Portland markets."

The population of that part of Clackamas county, whose products pass through East Portland, I cannot ascertain definitely, but it cannot be less than five or six thousand. Then a large number of farmers from Marion county pass through East Portland to the metropolis; also from Vancouver and the country surrounding and lying east of it along the north bank of the Columbia river. It will thus be seen that the population to be benefited by the proposed bridge is not "small," but is almost if not quite equal to that of Portland itself.

Neither are the productions of this "narrow strip" very limited. Large quantities of wheat, oats, hay, &c., are raised there, and it is from this section that Portland receives most of its milk, butter, fruit and vegetables, besides the other various products of the farm. East Portland is also the terminus of the O. & C. railroad.

Judge Deady also says: "It is not intended by this statement to suggest that there is no need of a bridge at this place, but only that the interests which may be promoted are as a drop in the bucket compared with those that may be seriously inconvenienced or injured by it." With all due deference to the learning and ability of Judge Deady, I think he has this time put the cart before the horse.

The traffic which crosses the river is but as a drop in the bucket compared with that which passes up or down it, past the present location of the bridge. Why sir, the very reverse is the fact. For every passenger carried on the river past the foot of Morrison street, one hundred are carried across it, and (leaving steamboats out of the question, as I believe it is not claimed that the bridge is a serious obstruction to them) for every ton of freight carried past the same point in ocean-going vessels, fifty tons are carried across the river at the Stark street ferry alone. To the best of my judgment and recollection not more than six or eight ocean-going vessels received their cargoes south of Morrison street during the past year. It is true that Mr. Hatch swears that a larger number than that were loaded wholly or in part from his wharf. I think he uses the word "from", I do not think he swears that they were all loaded wholly or in part "at" his wharf. If I am wrong in this statement he can correct me. A vessel might be loaded from his wharf and never come to Portland at all, but remain at Astoria, and I think if the truth could be got at in this case such would be found to be the fact in regard to some of the vessels. All the ocean steamers land from a half a mile to a mile below the foot of Morrison street, and the same is true of seven-eighths of the sailing vessels that visit Portland.

At least four-fifths of the wharf frontage is below Morrison street and is rapidly spreading further in that direction. I believe no ocean steamer has passed Morrison street for a year past. Of the freight that is brought to Portland in sea going vessels and steamships, scarcely any of it is landed above Morrison street. I believe investigation will fully bear me out in the assertions I here make, and I leave it to the unprejudiced reader to determine which is the "drop in the bucket." I sincerely trust his honor has no better foundation for his law than he has for his facts; in that case we will soon have the satisfaction of seeing this important and necessary improvement again under way—a consummation for which we who live in this "narrow strip of country" will all devoutly pray. There is much more that I would like to say, but fearful that I have already trespassed too much upon your space, will defer it to some future time, should it be necessary to again trouble you.

THE SPIRITUALIST CONVENTION.

As per announcement the Spiritualist convention opened in the forenoon, by a brief address of welcome by Dr. Dean Clarke, followed by a song by Walter Hyde and Mrs. Logan. A conference succeeded. Mr. Hyde made some remarks pertinent to the occasion. Mr. Creswell, of Milwaukie, then recited a poem, having a local significance about his home, and then spoke upon Bible spiritualism, claiming St. Paul as a Spiritualist.

Afternoon Session.

Music by the choir. Conference of one hour. Dr. Clarke opened with a few appropriate remarks. Rev. Mr. Davis followed, saying that [illegible] years ago he and several ministerial brethren met in Indiana to put down Spiritualism as the work of the devil, but, like Paul of old, in his efforts new light dawned, and he was no longer disposed to persecute God's messengers of truth.

Mrs. Brown, of the Rising Sun, made a few remarks alluding to her paper and its origin.

Mr. Jas. Cooley, of Gervais, was glad to be with us to celebrate one of the grandest events in history. He was converted from infidelity by spirit manifestations. People called him crazy, and the church said he was bound to hell, but he had been true to the evidence and was wiser and better than before. If the devil is leading us into light and knowledge he must have been belied.

Mr. Bennett of East Portland had investigated 11 years. He had been a religionist but [illegible] light than the churches have had. We must be spiritually minded and pure, then angels will be our company. He was once in the shell of popular theology, but he had burst it as the chicken does and is now a free man.

Music by the choir.

A speech by Mrs. Dr. Thompson: It takes moral courage to stand up for unpopular truth. There are powers of both light and darkness at work in this world. She had sought for truth and had found a great one in spiritualism. Had seen wonderful manifestations accompanied by and revealing intelligence. She had buried the mortal form of a child, and Christians told her God had taken it to punish her for loving it too well. She said He would have to take them all if that was the case. Spiritualism came and its light [illegible] according to the ways of Providence. Spiritualism teaches us to live holy, spiritual lives, then evil leaves us.

Mr. Smith said that [illegible] the influence of Spiritualism [illegible] blame all who fear public opinion.

Mr. Hyde followed. He had been a member of the Baptist Church, of which his father was a devoted minister. But his father could give him no satisfactory spiritual science, and when Spiritualism came with its scientific facts his prayer for more light was answered. His wife, a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church, became a medium for proclaiming the new doctrine, and thirty years of investigation had firmly established his faith. He gave an explanation of the relation of the invisible spirit to its machinery, the body.

Evening Session.

Opened with music by the choir. Mrs. Dean then read an account of the Origin of Modern Spiritualism.

Mrs. Cummings read an inspirational poem in fine style. Music by the choir. Then Mrs. Dr. Logan gave a brief speech and a poem illustrating her experience.

Mr. C. Orissen then gave a succinct and pointed speech upon the adaptation of Spiritualism to human wants.

Mrs. Dr. Thompson was called upon and gave a very pertinent address, after which the convention closed for the day.

The Heath family are present as singers.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

A Protest.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Wm. Alvord and some forty or fifty others have brought suits in the superior court praying for a writ of prohibition to restrain the tax collector from collection of taxes on the supplemental tax list. Last fall the tax collector, claiming to act under a special law applying to San Francisco, made a supplemental tax list after the regular tax list had been made up and equalized. It is claimed by plaintiffs that they have paid all taxes legally due and that the supplemental tax list is illegal and void. The amount of property represented in the supplemental list is $100,000,000.

Search Ordered for the Missing Australian Steamer.

VALLEJO, March 30.—A telegram was received at the navy yard late this afternoon ordering the Wachusett to sea immediately to search for the missing mail steamer City of New York. Coaling was begun with a force of eight laborers to get the ship ready to sail by 3 o'clock in the morning, if possible.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Walla Walla Items.

WALLA WALLA, March 30.—A. M. Buckley, the new superintendent of the railroad division of the O. R. & N. Co., arrived here last night from Kansas City and relieved R. W. Fairweather, who becomes superintendent of the Pend d'Oreille division of the N. P. R. R. Co.

Weather splendid for crops, and prospects for a big crop were never better.

FROM ALASKA.

Two Indians Probably Burned to Death—The New Mines Buried in Snow—Compulsory Education of Indian Children, Etc.

PORT TOWNSEND, March 30.—The steamer California arrived at Sitka on the 22d instant, having experienced very stormy weather.

A Horrible Indian Sacrifice.

The Jamestown steam launch under command of Ensign Usher returned from Takou on the 2d inst. At Hoochinoo Ensign Usher seized the Indian village for two prisoners supposed to be in confinement there and condemned to be burned to death. The search, however, was unsuccessful; but after the departure of the launch a funeral fire was observed by Ensign Usher, and from all appearances he thinks the two Indians were sacrificed.

The Takou Mines.

There are fifteen feet of snow on the quartz ledges at Takou. One of the ledges was exposed after much hard shoveling and 400 pounds of quartz taken down to camp. The experts who went up in February are building cabins and will await the disappearance of the snow. The Northwestern Trading Company's steamer Favorite sailed for Takou on the 19th, towing their new barge and taking a few miners and a large stock of goods for the new store.

Improving the Condition of the Sitka Indians.

The system recently adopted by Commander Glass, of the Jamestown, for the advancement of the Sitka Indians, is working admirably. Every house in the Indian village has been whitewashed and numbered. Every child, sufficiently old, is compelled to attend school, in which there are now 200 pupils. Absentees from school, without proper excuses, are fined so many blankets, which are sold for the benefit of the school fund.

General Items.

The Jamestown will be relieved in May or June by the Wachusett, 700 ton propeller carrying seven guns.

The snow is rapidly disappearing from the mountains and the weather is moderating.

There is a strong feeling of regret in Sitka at the approaching departure of Commander Glass.

Sergeant J. J. McLean is now establishing a signal service station at Sitka.

The California will leave this port (Port Townsend) for the north on the morning of April 1st.

While a party of American travelers were visiting the battlefield of Waterloo an iron box was found by one of them. It contained the will of an English officer, Sir Charles O'Neally, and by it the present heirs of his fortune suddenly find themselves dispossessed in favor of the children of his eldest son.

A telescope costing $50,000 and an observatory costing $25,000 have been offered the University of Virginia, on the condition that the friends of the university secure an endowment of $50,000 for the chair of the director of the observatory.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

DOCTORS GAVE HIM UP.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago, his doctors gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! If that is so, I will go this minute and get some for my poor George. I know hops are good."

HOP BITTERS MANUFACTURING CO.,
Rochester, New York and Toronto, Ontario.

For Sale by Hodge, Davis & Co. and all other druggists.

Is thorough in its Medicinal Action, and yet so agreeable to the taste that patrons often disregard our injunction to divide the lozenge into parts (say two doses) to meet their respective cases. At the outset it is especially essential to observe the directions closely till one becomes accustomed to its use — when mild action and the most satisfactory results are sure to follow.

Ladies and children, and those who dislike taking pills and nauseous medicines to secure cathartic action, are especially pleased with its agreeable qualities.

Try it once, and you will esteem it highly as a safe, pleasant, and effective remedy.

Packed in bronzed tin boxes only.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH.

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
